HECKMAN.

There is a tradition among the Heckman family, of Franklin County, Pa., that the ancestry of the Heckmans of Pennsylvania is traceable to several Heckman brothers who emigrated to this country from Germany, scattering widely on their arrival here and settling in localities distant from each other, where each established separate family branches from which sprang the various Heckman families of to-day. The first of the name to leave Germany and locate in Pennsylvania was John Peter Heckmann, who sailed from Rotterdam on the ship "Judith," James Tait master, landing in Philadelphia, September 15, 1748. Within the next twenty years, 1748-68, he was followed by no fewer than ten other representatives of the name, a remarkably short period for a family to so establish itself in a new country. Ulrich Hackmann, a Palatine, emigrated from Rotterdam on the ship "St. Andrew," James Abercrombie master, landing at Philadelphia, September 9, 1749. Melchior Heckman, a Palatine, emigrated from Rotterdam on the ship "Fame," William Hyndman master, landing at Philadelphia, October 17, 1749. Hans Adram and Wilhelm Heckman and Peter Hickman sailed from Rotterdam on the ship "Brothers," William McNair master, and landed at Philadelphia, September 22, 1752. A little less than a year later, on September 10, 1753, Albrecht Heckman, a Palatine, landed in Philadelphia from the ship "Beulah," Captain Richey master, from Rotterdam. Another John Peter Heckman emigrated from Rotterdam on the ship "Neptune," George Smith master, landing at Philadelphia, October 7, 1755. John Adam Heckman came from Rotterdam on the ship "Richmond," Charles Younghusband master, and arrived at Philadelphia, October 20, 1764, and was followed in turn by Sebastian Heckman, who sailed from Rotterdam on the ship "Chance," Charles Smith master, landing in Philadelphia, September 23, 1766. Still later came John Nicholas Heckman in the ship "Crawford," Charles Smith master, from Rotterdam, landing at Philadelphia, October 26, 1768. As early as 1751-58, Hieronymus Heckman lived in Bart township, Lancaster county, Pa. He was married to a daughter of Mathias Slaymaker and died in 1784. His children were John Martin, Barbara, Eve, Jacob, Hieronymus, Magdalena and Esther. At the time of his death the family name was spelled Eckman and it is likely that the family was Scotch.

In the Revolution and the events leading thereto, it can be accepted as certain that the Heckmans, in common with other German settlers, played their part. Jacob Heckman, of Berks county, Pa., was a private in the company of Captain Henry Christ, Jr., in the Pennsylvania Rifle Regiment, a command organized for the defense of the Province at the suggestion of the Committee of Safety, February 20, 1776, the men being enlisted to serve to January 1, 1778, subject to being discharged at any time. The regiment was raised in about six weeks and rendezvoused at Marcus Hook. On July 2, 1776, it was ordered to Philadelphia, when the number of officers and men in Christ's company reported on duty were 62. Marching to Bordentown on the 4th and to Trenton on the 5th, the regiment proceeded on to Amboy, under orders to join General Mercer, which it accomplished by the 16th. On August 10 the command was ordered to New York under the command of Brigadier-General Lord Stirling and took part in the battle of Long Island, August 27, 1776, in which engagement the regiment was so badly broken up that General Washington ordered the three battalions to be considered as a regiment and placed under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Daniel Broadhead until further orders, Colonel Miles having been among those killed in the action. On September 27, 1776, these battalions were in General Mifflin's brigade and stationed at Mt. Washington. By a rearrangement, October 5, Christ's company became the Seventh in the regiment afterward known as the "Regiment of Foot," at which time the company consisted of 4 sergeants, 1 drummer and 41 privates, with 11 men absent. Thereafter it followed the fortunes of the Continental army. It was engaged in the capture of the Hessians at Trenton, December 26, 1776; in the battle of Princeton, January 3, 1777; and then lay part of the winter at Philadelphia. Its remaining service until January 1, 1778, has not been ascertained.

As indicated by the list of emigrant settlers, the Heckman name was variously spelled, notably Hackman, Heckman, Hickman and Hakeman. By 1790 the family was widely scattered and the first United States census, taken that year, shows its representatives to have settled in at least twelve counties of the State of Pennsylvania, namely, Lancaster, Montgomery, Berks, Cumberland, Allegheny, Chester, Franklin, Northampton, Philadelphia, Washington, York and Westmoreland. According to the census of 1790, Henry Hackman, of Conestoga township, Lancaster county, had a family at that time of one male over 16, two males under 16 and three females, while the family of Melchor Hackman, of the same township, consisted of two males over 16 and four females. Ulrich Hackman, of Mt. Joy township, Lancaster county, had only himself and wife to account for and Henry Hackman, of Warwick township, in the same county, reported two males over 16, two males under 16, and three females. John Hackman, of Montgomery county, also had a family of two males over 16, two under 16, and three females. George Heckman, who lived in Alsace township, Berks county, had a family consisting of himself, six males under 16, and four females. There were two Peter Heckmans in Tulpehocken township, Berks county, one who reported himself and two females as constituting the family and another whose family circle consisted of one male over 16, one under that age, and five females. Andrew Heckman, of Cumberland county, had with him in his home three males under 16 and five females. Ludwig Heckman, a resident of Lancaster borough, had but himself and wife; and Henry Heckman, of Martie township, Lancaster county, had a family of one male over 16, three males under 16, and three females. There were two Hickmans in Allegheny county, Adam, whose family composed himself, four males under 16 and two females, and Peter, whose domicile contained two males over 16, one male under 16, and one female. There were seven Hickman families in Chester county. That of Dedrich, of Charlestown township, consisting of himself, two males under 16, and two females; of Moses, of East Bradford township, two males over 16, one under that age, and four females; William, Kennet township, four males over 16, two under, and five females; Thomas, Thornbury township, five males over 16, five under, and three females; James, West Cain township, one male over 16, four under 16, and three females; Benjamin, Westtown township, two over 16, four under that age, and six females; and Joseph and Francis, who apparently lived in one house in Westtown township, and whose family comprised themselves and three females. The only family of the name reported in Franklin county was that of Albert Hickman, whose home circle was given as four males over 16 and five females. John Hickman, of Drumore township, Lancaster county, had a family comprising himself, five males under 16, and three females, while another John Hickman, of Little Britain township, in the same county, had himself, five males under 16, and four females to record. In Northampton county there were four Hickmans and two Hickmans enumerated. George Hickman, of Lehigh township, that county, had but himself, wife and son under 16, while John Hickman of Moore township, had a family of two males over 16, two under, and five females. In Allen township, same county, lived Orklerich Hickman, whose family comprised himself, three males under 16 and two females. In the latter township also resided and were recorded an Adam Hickman and an Adam Hakeman, the former with a family of two males over 16, three under, and four females, and the last named with a family of one over 16, one under, and four females. In Allen township also lived George Hakeman, with two males under 16 and three females. In Germantown, Philadelphia, Barbara Hickman lived alone, while in the Northern Liberties, Philadelphia, were Benjamin and Nicholas Hickman, the first with a family of one male over 16, one under 16, and six females and the second with himself, one male under 16, and two females to account for. Selby Hickman was a tailor on Spruce street, Philadelphia, at this time and Robert Hickman, a resident of Washington county, with a family of one male over 16, one under, and three females, while William Hickman, also of Washington county, had but himself, son and wife. In York township, York county, there was a John Hickman, whose family consisted of himself, two males under 16 and one female. Last, but probably not the least, in South Huntington township, Westmoreland county, dwelt a Hickman whose given name is not recorded in the census and who was designated as "Mr.," his household consisting of himself and four females. These statistics are not without interest in themselves and are particularly significant as indicating the broad scope covered by the Heckman family in establishing themselves in Pennsylvania.

Some time before the middle of the eighteenth century, certainly before the coming of John Peter Heckmann to Pennsylvania in 1748, Thomas Hickman, of German extraction, had settled in Virginia. He married Sarah Sander-son, and his son, William, famous in his day as a Baptist clergyman, was born in King and Queen Co., Va., Feb. 4, 1747. Both parents died while William Hickman was a child, leaving him and a young daughter to the care of their grandmother. Mr. Heckman united with the Baptist church in 1773, and was licensed to preach in 1776. After visiting Kentucky earlier in the year, where he preached the first sermon in the new settlement. In 1784 he settled in Fayette county, Ky., and founded many churches in Kentucky. An incident in which he was concerned will illustrate the strictness of discipline among Baptists at that period. A young lady, the daughter of Colonel Haskins and afterward the wife of Edward Trabue, was arraigned before the church at Skin-quarter "for wearing stays, they being fashionable at that time. She was truly a meek and pious young lamb," wrote the Rev. Mr. Hickman, "I plead her cause and saved her." Mr. Hickman was twice married and raised many children. His eldest son, William, who was born in Virginia, June 1, 1768, and died at his home in Franklin county, Ky., December 24, 1845, was for more than forty years the pastor of South Benson Church. Another of his sons was Captain Paschal Hickman, who was killed in the massacre at the River Raisin, January 22, 1813. He led a party of spies under General Wayne, 1794-95, was a Captain of Kentucky Volunteers under Colonel William Lewis in 1812, and was wounded in the action with the British and Indians at Frenchtown, being killed by the savages in the slaughter that took place three days afterward. The father, William Hickman, Sr., the pioneer, died in Kentucky in 1830. Two other members of the Hickman family also distinguished themselves in the Baptist ministry. The first of these was Jesse Lee Hickman who was born at Saulsbury, N. C., in 1786 and died in Allen county, Ky., March 23, 1850. The other was his nephew, John W. Hickman, who was born in Hickman county, Ky., in 1819 and died in 1850. It is also worthy of note that Hickman county, Ky., was named in honor of Captain Paschal Hickman, son of the Rev. William Hickman, Sr.

Among the prominent representatives of the family in Pennsylvania, probably none attained greater distinction than John Hickman, noteworthy as a lawyer and statesman. He was born in Chester county, Pa., September 11, 1810, and died in West Chester, Pa., March 23, 1875. He was educated by private tutors, read law in West Chester, and was there admitted to the bar in 1832. He acquired reputation in his profession and as a political speaker, and in 1854 he was elected to Congress as a Democrat in a strong Whig district. He was re-elected in 1856, changed his views on the slavery question, was again elected in 1858 as a Douglas Democrat by a large majority over both the regular nominees, and became a leader on the side of the North, acquiring a national repute through his brilliant speeches. In 1860 he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for the vice-presidency. He was again elected to Congress in 1860 as a Republican and was the first to propose in Congress the freeing of the slaves and the enlisting of negro soldiers. At the close of his fourth Congressional term he declined a re-election and with the exception of a single term in the Pennsylvania Legislature, passed the rest of his life at his home in West Chester. Another Hickman who at one time commanded attention at the National Capital was Robert S. Hickman, who was born in 1813 and died in Washington, D. C., September 2, 1873. His career was in its way a parallel with that of the famous Beau Brummel. A native of Virginia or Maryland, he went to Washington about the time of the Mexican War and soon became noted there for the elegance of his dress and manners, acquiring the name of "Beau" Hickman. He was on familiar terms with many public men and in later life entertained many visitors in Washington with his reminiscences and anecdotes, and subsisted by means of trifling sums that he pretended to borrow from his hearers, a sad termination to a brilliant past.

Charles Adam Heckman, a descendant of Jacob Heckman, of the Revolution, was born in Easton, Pa., Dec. 3, 1822, and was graduated at Minerva Seminary, in his native town, in 1837. In the war with Mexico he served as sergeant in the First United States Voltigeurs. He was commissioned Captain in the First Pennsylvania Regiment, April 20, 1861, became Major of the 9th New Jersey, October 3, was promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel, December 3, and to Colonel February 10, 1862. He was made a Brigadier-General of Volunteers, November 29, 1862. He served in Burnside's expedition to North Carolina and afterward in the Army of the James, being wounded at Newbern and Young's Cross Roads, N. C. and Fort Walthall, Va. He commanded the defences of Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va., in the winter of 1863-64, and at Drewry's Bluff, Va., May 16, 1864, he was captured after his brigade had five times repelled a superior force of Confederates. He was taken to Libby prison and afterward to Macon, Ga., and Charleston, S. C., where he was one of the fifty-one officers that were placed under fire of the National guns. He was exchanged on August 25, commanded the 18th Corps at the capture of Fort Harrison, Chapin's Bluff, and the 25th Corps in January and February, 1865. He resigned when the war was over, May 25, 1865, and in 1887 was a resident of Phillipsburg, N. J., where he served as a member of the Board of Education.

I.

ALBRECHT HECKMAN, the emigrant ancestor of the Heckman family of Franklin county, Pa., was born in the Palatinate, Germany, May 22, 1732, and died in Guilford township, Franklin county, Pa., May 30, 1804. He emigrated to Pennsylvania on the ship "Beulah," Captain Richey, sailing from Rotterdam and landing at Philadelphia, September 10, 1753. It is probable that he remained in Eastern Pennsylvania for a brief period, but he among the early settlers of the Cumberland Valley and bought the farm which became the Heckman homestead in Guilford township, Cumberland, now Franklin county, February 15, 1771. This land adjoined the plantation of Frederick Croft, whose son, David Croft, was the brother-in-law by marriage of Heckman's two sons, Michael and Henry. The Heckman homestead was surveyed to Samuel Howard and William Forsyth, October 21, 1749. Forsyth was killed by the Indians in 1759 and was the first person buried in Falling Spring Presbyterian graveyard. His grave is on the spot where he fell and his tombstone is still standing. The farm was sold by Forsyth's father, John Forsyth, to Patrick Jack in 1761, and by Patrick and James Jack to John Irwin in 1762. About the time the land was sold to the Jacks, Patrick Jack went to North Carolina, where he was one of the promoters of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, as John Jack, son of his brother, James, was one of the promoters of the Hannasburg Declaration of Independence in Westmoreland county, Pa. The Heckman homestead, which Mr. Heckman bought from Irwin, was situated north of the present Witherspoon and Miller farms. By a deed dated April 18, 1788, Albrecht Heckman sold a part of his land to Michael Rafsnider. This tract was bought by Rafsnider for his son, John, who was also the son-in-law of Heckman, and to whom it was conveyed simultaneously with the conveyance of Albrecht Heckman to Michael Rafsnider. Heckman retained 124½ acres of the original Heckman homestead, which, after his death, were taken by his eldest son, Michael, in proceedings in partition in the Orphans' Court of Franklin county. Mr. Heckman was enrolled in Captain William Findley's company, Cumberland County Associators, in 1777 and later with Captain James Young's company of the Associators. It is not definitely proved but it is probable that he served a tour of duty under Captain Young in 1778. Heckman's name is variously spelled in different public documents and other records. In the roll of Captain Young's company, as printed in the "Pennsylvania Archives," it is Albert Hickman and the same name, with the same spelling, is applied to him in the first United States census in 1790. In the deed of 1788 to Michael Rafsnider, it is Albright Hickman but the signature to the deed is written in German. In the absence of the original deed, the exact spelling of the name in German can not be determined, as the tracing in the copy in the office of the Recorder of Deeds is uncertain. The name is also Albright Hickman in the original deed from Irwin to Heckman, February 15, 1771. Mr. Heckman was a member of the Grindestone Hill Lutheran Church, in the graveyard of which he was buried. The inscription on his tombstone, as translated by the Rev. David H. Focht, for his history of the church in 1854, is as follows:

"Here rests the body of our deceased brother, Albrecht Heckman, who was born on the 22d of May, 1732, and died on the 30th of May, 1804, aged 72 years."

The name of Albrecht Heckman's wife was Catharine. In the deed to Ralfsnider in 1788 her name was written Cathrain by another hand than her own.

Issue:

1. Margaret Heckman, was married to William Huston, son of David and Susanna Huston. He died in 1823. He was commissioned Captain of the Sixth Company, Sixth Battalion, Cumberland County Associators, under Colonel Samuel Culbertson, July 31, 1777, and re-commissioned May 14, 1778. He was in active service with his company in January, 1778. When his men were ready to march, the Rev. Dr. John King, pastor of the Upper West Conococheague Presbyterian Church, preached before them his celebrated patriotic sermon, which proved an inspiring force at the darkest hour of the Revolution. Captain Huston lived southeast of the present village of St. Thomas in the part of Peters that is now St. Thomas township, his lands adjoining the Thompson, now the Archibald, farm on the north. His will was dated September 23, 1823, and proved November 19, 1823. His wife, Margaret, survived him. Their children were Thomas, Isabella, John, Anne, James, William, Benjamin, Joseph, Mary and Margaret.

Captain Huston's grandfather, Archibald Huston, was married to Mrs. Agnes Shaw, who died in 1787. They had two children, David and Mary, wife of William Rankin. By her first marriage Mrs. Huston had two grandchildren, in South Carolina, sons of her son, Robert Shaw. David Huston, Captain Huston's father, died in 1794 and his wife, Susanna, died October 5, 1822; their children were Archibald, David, John, Samuel, William, James, Joseph, Agnes, Jean, Lydia, and Susanna.

2. Michael Heckman died in 1819. He obtained the Heckman homestead in Guilford township under proceedings in partition in the Orphans' Court of Franklin county, after his father's death, but lived in Hamilton township on a farm adjoining the lands of his brother, Henry Heckman. He was married to Barbara Unangst, daughter of Andrew Unangst. She died in 1829. She was a sister of Susanna Unangst, the wife of Michael Heckman's brother, Henry. Their children were Jacob, Anna Maria, wife of Michael Doyle, John, Abraham and Gideon.

The last named three boys were minors at the time of their father's death. Jacob Heckman, the eldest son, obtained the homestead in Hamilton township under proceedings in partition in the Orphans' Court of Franklin county. The entire family seems to have gone west.

3. Elizabeth Heckman was married to Samuel Overdeer.
4. Henry Heckman, of whom presently.
5. Philip Heckman, of whom nothing has been learned.
6. Catharine Heckman was married to John Ralfsnider, son of Michael and Mary Ralfsnider. He died in 1812. He served with Captain James Young's marching company in the battalion of Colonel Arthur Buchanan, under the call of July 28, 1777. In 1778 his father, Michael Ralfsnider, bought a tract of land, consisting of part of the Heckman homestead in Guilford township, which was simultaneously conveyed to him. He subsequently removed to Letterkenny township, where he died. In his will, which was proved October 19, 1812, but not dated, he left a bequest to the German Presbyterian Congregation of Chambersburg, now Zion's Reformed Church. His wife, Catharine, survived him; their children were Henry, Catharine, Magdalena, John and others whose names have not been ascertained.

Mr. Ralfsnider's father, Michael Ralfsnider, died in the winter of 1795-96. His will was dated August 11, 1794, and proved January 30, 1796. His wife Mary, survived him. Their children were John, Henry, a daughter who was the wife of Valentine Cusard, and Gertrude, wife of Michael Rhine.

Henry Ralfsnider, the second son, was ensign with Captain James Young's company, Cumberland county Associators. This company belonged to the Conococheague region below Chambersburg. He filled the same rank in Captain John Rea's marching company, which was in active service under Colonel Abraham Smith early in 1778. The battalion to which the company belonged was on duty between the Schnylkill and the Delaware at the time Washington abandoned his cantonments at Valley Forge and some of the companies composing it were cut to pieces in the affair at the Crooked Billet, including those of Captain Charles Maclay and Captain Charles Leeper. Besides Captain Rea's command, the only Franklin county company in the battalion at the time was that of Captain John McConnell. Ensign Ralfsnider's company participated in Washington's march across New Jersey and it is probable that he was in the battle of Monmouth. In the "Pennsylvania Archives," Second Series, his name is printed as "Henry R. Snyder," "Henry Ralphsnider," and "Ralph Snyder."

7. Mary Heckman was married to George Piper.

II.

HENRY HECKMAN, second son and fourth child of Albrecht and Catharine Heckman, was born in Gaifford township, Cumberland, now Franklin county, Pa., in 1771 and died in Hamilton township, Franklin county, October 14, 1823. He was buried in the graveyard of the First Lutheran Church of Chambersburg. He was a farmer in Hamilton township, here he owned a farm adjoining that of his brother, Michael, on which he lived. He also obtained a tract of land from his father-in-law, Andrew Unangst, under the latter's will, in which property the interest of Michael Heckman and Barbara, his wife, and David Croft and Catharine, his wife, was released by an instrument dated May 24, 1819. The interest of Elizabeth, the other daughter of Andrew Unangst, who was dead at that time, was paid by Henry Heckman to her heirs. Mr. Heckman was married in 1797 to Susanna Unangst, daughter of Andrew Unangst. She was born December 16, 1770, and died April 27, 1842. She was buried by the side of her husband in the graveyard of the First Lutheran Church, Chambersburg. Henry and Susanna (Unangst) Heckman had four children.

Mrs. Heckman's father, Andrew Unangst, son of George Heinrich Unangst, was born in the Palatinate, Germany, January 31, 1741, and died either in Peters township, Franklin county, Pa., or in Chambersburg, April 4, 1812. He was buried in the graveyard of the First Lutheran Church, Chambersburg. He emigrated to Pennsylvania with his father on the ship "Patience." Hugh Steel master, sailing from Rotterdam and landing at Philadelphia, September 19, 1749. He owned a house and lot in Chambersburg and a farm in Peters township, where he was living when his will was executed, October 4, 1810. He divided his estate between his four daughters, Susanna, wife of Henry Heckman, Barbara, wife of Michael Heckman, Catharine, wife of David Croft, and Elizabeth, wife of ——— Failor, who was a widow at the time of her father's death but who died before 1819, survived by five children, a married daughter, Mrs. Bender, having died before the mother, leaving issue. Four of these children were Andrew and Nicholas Failor, who removed to Ohio, Susanna, wife of William McElvain, and Elizabeth, wife of ——— Fitzsimmons, the last named receiving a special bequest in the will of her grandfather, Andrew Unangst.

Catharine Unangst, who married David Croft, was born April 9, 1766, and died August 10, 1834. David Croft, son of Frederick and Maria M. (Kusien) Krafft, was born August 3, 1765, and died December 18, 1845. He owned four farms in Hamilton township, near Emanuel Church, in Franklin county, Pa., on one of which he lived. His children were David, John, Catharine, wife of William Miller, Abraham, Samuel, Elizabeth, wife of Samuel Coldsmith, Mary, wife of Jacob Heckman, and Margaret, wife of Abraham Johnson. Frederick Kraft, the father of David, was born near Worms, Germany, in 1714 and died in Brothers Valley township, Somerset county, Pa., in 1802. He emigrated to Pennsylvania from Rotterdam on the ship "Winter Galley," landing at Philadelphia, September 5, 1738. He obtained an order of survey for 292 acres of land in Guilford township, Cumberland, now Franklin county, Pa., April 9, 1768. The survey was made September 14, 1768. This land was north of the Witherspoon farm, now owned by Hon. John W. Witherspoon, and nearly a mile east of the Chambersburg and Greencastle road. Mr. Kraft sold it to John Miller, May 1, 1779. The Heckman homestead was east of the Miller and north of the Witherspoon lands.

The children all live together at their home in Peters township, Franklin Co., Pa., where they own three adjoining farms, comprising 373 acres of land. All six of the Heckman brothers became farmers and, like their father, are enterprising in their methods.

The progenitor of the Greiner family of Lancaster county and the Kriner family of Franklin county was Martin Creiner. Mrs. Heckman's great-great-grandfather, who emigrated to Pennsylvania on the ship "Alexander and Ann" in 1730 and settled soon after his arrival near White Oak, in the original township of Warwick, in Lancaster county, where he died about 1742. He had a son, Adam, Mrs. Heckman's great-grandfather, who was born in Warwick township, Lancaster county, June 17, 1731, and died May 23, 1803. During the Revolution Adam Greiner was enrolled in Captain John Gingrich's company, of Colonel John Huber's battalion, Lancaster County Associators. In the returns of Adam Orth, sub-lieutenant of Lancaster county, his name, as printed in the "Pennsylvania Archives," appears as Adam Krinner. The name of his wife was Catharine, but her family name has not been ascertained. She was born April 4, 1737, and died April 27, 1789. She was buried by the side of her husband in the graveyard of White Oak Church. The inscriptions on the tombstones of both are in German text and still legible. The tombstones are of native stone quarried in the neighborhood. With these tombstones is a similar stone in memory of their daughter, Catharine, who died in her 19th year. She was born October 14, 1762, and died January 28, 1787. Adam Greiner's will was dated May 14, 1798, and proved March 6, 1804. In this document he mentions his two sons, Martin and John, and his son-in-law, Michael Steckbeck. His daughter's name is not given in the will but to his son-in-law he gave a tract of land in Hanover township, Dauphin county, Pa. John Kriner, the youngest son of Adam and Catharine Greiner, and grandfather of Mrs. Heckman, was born in Warwick township, Lancaster county, May 20, 1775, and died in Peters township, Franklin county, May 26, 1843. He removed from Lancaster to Franklin county about 1806 and settled in Peters township, where he was a farmer. He was married to Mary Unger, a native of Lancaster county. She was born November 29, 1779, and died March 5, 1855. Their children were: John, Catharine, who died unmarried, Jacob, George, Mary, wife of Henry Christman, Emanuel, and Joseph.
